

Thank you for helping to protect the Isle of Man's wild birds and their habitats.

left to right: Red-breasted Merganser, Chough, Puffin, Stonechat © Neil G Morris

Manx BirdLife, 35 New Road, Laxey, Isle of Man IM4 7BG
Tel: 01624 861130 Email: enquiries@manxbirdlife.im
For more information: www.manxbirdlife.im
Registered charity no. 711 Company no. 087312C

Our wild birds need your help

Ta ny h-ushagyn feie Vannin ayns feme jeh dty chooney

The Isle of Man is a ruggedly beautiful place with a characteristic avifauna

Peregrine: The world's fastest bird

Our hills and moors are graced by sky-dancing Hen Harriers and evocatively-calling Curlews. Soaring cliffs in the south are home to dashing Peregrines, charismatic Chough and populations of seabirds. The northern lowlands host winter herds of majestic Whooper Swans, while Arctic and Little Terns nest on the beaches in summer.

Yet, every year the diversity and abundance of our wilds is diminished

Although some bird species continue to thrive, we are witnessing worrying declines in many others. It is clear that without urgent action, many species are at risk of disappearing, possibly forever, from the Manx countryside.

Already, we have lost once-common breeding species such as Yellowhammer, Corncrake, Corn

Bunting, Common and Sandwich Terns. We need to act now if we are to stop others – such as Whinchat, Skylark, Tree Sparrow, Curlew and Lapwing – from suffering a similar demise.

Manx BirdLife will strive to create a better future – for birds and people

Curlew: Declining rapidly

With your support, Manx BirdLife will continue to monitor bird populations. We will research and propose solutions to many of the problems facing our wild birds and their habitats. We will advocate for change, and work to nurture a stronger appreciation of the beauty and value of our natural heritage — among people of all ages.

Protecting our magnificent natural heritage for future generations

We have a responsibility to ensure our children can enjoy the spectacle of the island's magnificent bird life, just as we have. Without the colour, song and character of wild birds around us, the island would be a much poorer place.

Please help Manx BirdLife to protect the island's wild birds and the habitats on which they depend.

Yellowhammer: Lost forever?

I wish to help Manx BirdLife protect the Isle of Man's wild birds and their habitats

I wish to become a Friend of Manx BirdLife by making a regular donation: (tick as applicable)

○ Monthly ○ Annually

For the following amount:

O £100 O £50 O £25 O £1!

I have completed the Standing Order instruction below.

Standing Order instruction

	My address	Mv name	nearest b	Sort Code	I hereby i	My accour	My account name		Bank address	To (Name
Postcode		Signature	nearest banking day) and thereafter until further notice.	nount indicated above at	I hereby instruct my Bank/Building Society to pay Manx BirdLife (Barclays Bank,	My account no Sort Code	int name	Postcode	ress	To (Name of my Bank/Building Soc.)

Please return completed your form to:

I am happy for Manx BirdLife to contact me about its other conservation work and events using my details given above. (To find out how Manx BirdLife uses and looks after your personal data, please visit www.ManxBirdLife.im/Privacy.)

Manx BirdLife, 35 New Road, LAXEY IM4 7BG

Thank you for your support, without which our vital work would not be possible.