

Garden Birdwatcher Role Profile

This role is based where ever you call home!

Do you like birdwatching? Do you watch the birds in your garden? Do you want to spend some time each week watching the birds in your garden (maybe with a cup of tea in your hand)?

Then this is the role for you!

For over 20 years, the Manx BirdLife Garden Birdwatch has allowed us to follow the changes in the birds in gardens across the Island. In that time, over 500 contributors have recorded nearly 4.5 million birds from 157 species. Sadly, many of these species are now considered to be of conservation concern meaning that the data gathered from around the Island is more important than ever.

Having contributors from around the Island help to develop a clearer picture of the state of birds in our gardens, meaning we are in a better position to ensure the future of our wildlife.

If you would like more information on this role or any other aspect of our work then email enquiries@manxbirdlife.im for more information.

Manx BirdLife is the independent wildlife conservation charity based in the Isle of Man working to protect, restore and enhance the Island's wild bird populations and the habitats on which they depend.
